

Steve Lewis
rioct@snet.net
Woodbury, Connecticut 06798

According to a Kiplinger report, the 13 states that tax Social Security are Colorado, Connecticut, Kansas, Minnesota, Missouri, Montana, Nebraska, New Mexico, North Dakota, Rhode Island, Utah, Vermont and West Virginia.

<https://login.yahoo.com/?src=ym&intl=us&lang=en-US&done=https%3a//mail.yahoo.com>

That leaves 37 other states to choose from in order to stretch a retirement income. What's the incentive to stay?